Great rural escapes for families in the British Isles

Garden party

With its dramatic location, garden full of camellias in bloom in March and close proximity to the Lost Gardens of Heligan, Trebah Gardens and the Eden Project, Cornish self-catering home Moonrakers makes a fine choice for a spring break for an extended family.

Part of the St Mawes Retreats collection of five contemporary coastal properties on the Roseland Peninsula, Moonrakers sleeps up to 12 people and has a raft of activities for families, from the trampolines in the garden, archery lessons, paddle-boarding and kayaking, to egg hunts during the Easter holidays.

Moonrakers offers a three-night weekend or a four-night midweek self-catering break for £2,000, sleeping up to 12 guests. Chef, boat charter, art teacher, outdoor activities, spa treatments and childcare can be arranged on request. 08000-886622; www.stmawesretreats.co.uk
